PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Portfolio seeks to provide directly or indirectly, through investment diversification, income and achieve medium- and long-term capital growth. The Portfolio invests primarily in equity securities, including units of income trusts of issuers listed on U.S. stock exchanges. The Portfolio Manager seeks to generate added value primarily by selecting income-producing securities that provide the best investment opportunities. A bottom-up approach is used to select corporate stocks offering the best opportunities and a top-down approach to control risks in respect of positions in different sectors. Securities selection in each sector and their respective weighting in the portfolio are based on the most promising corporations identified and deemed to be the most attractive in terms of earnings and dividend growth, financial solvency and other key criteria.

Risk

The Portfolio invests primarily in equities of American issuers. Derivatives may also be used for hedging purposes or to establish positions on the market. The Portfolio's investment risks are as set forth in the Simplified Prospectus. The risks associated with the Portfolio and its holdings are as follows: stock market risk, specific issuer risk, credit risk, currency risk, sector risk, interest rate risk, foreign security risk, derivatives risk, exchange-traded funds risk, securities lending risk, underlying funds risk, large transactions risk, multi-series risk, short selling risk and loss restrictions risk.

Operating Results

The FDP US Dividend Equity Portfolio, Series A posted a net return of 4.2% for the first six-month period of 2017, versus 13.8% for 2016. The U.S. stock market, as measured by the S&P 500 Index, posted a net return of 5.9%. The growth-style approach outperformed its value-style counterpart during the six-month period, with each posting an 11.7% and a 3.8% return, respectively. This difference mainly stems from the Technology and Health Care sectors, which are better represented within growth indices than value ones. The former sector was the biggest contributor to the S&P 500's performance.

Meanwhile, the U.S. GDP's annualized growth of 1.4% over the first quarter represented its weakest performance since the second quarter of 2016. Said growth stemmed primarily from increased household spending. Some indicators, such as the Purchasing Managers Index, remain in expansionary territory. GDP growth outlooks for the second quarter were downgraded from 5.9% in February to 3.5% in late May. Bottom line, growth remains strong in the U.S., with indicators simply backtracking after hitting significantly high peaks.

As the economy edges closer to full employment, salaries are beginning to increase slightly. This situation marks the end of a cycle, as the transfer of corporate wealth to households is observed.

Recent Developments

There are currently no events to report for 2017.

<sup>(1)</sup> For the years ended December 31, 2013 and before, the information is derived from the audited annual financial statements in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles as defined in Part V of the Canada CPA Handbook. As a result, net assets per unit presented in the financial statements differ from the net asset value calculated for the purposes of calculating unit prices and the differences are explained in the notes to the financial statements. For the following fiscal years, the information is derived from audited annual financial statements in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS). In compliance with these Standards, net assets per unit presented in the financial statements generally equal the net asset value calculated to establish unit prices.

<sup>(2)</sup> Management expense ratio includes management fees and operating expenses. It excludes income tax withheld on dividend income and transaction costs, and is expressed as a percentage of the daily average annualized net asset value during the fiscal year.

<sup>(3)</sup> The portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the portfolio manager manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a Fund.

MANAGEMENT FEES

Series A units pay management fees to the Manager, Professionals' Financial – Mutual Funds Inc., for service rendered to the unitholders, and investment management and administration services. Series A units' annual management fees of 0.95% are calculated daily according to the net assets and paid monthly after deducting the value of interfund investments. For the first six months of the year 2017, Series A units paid $84,000 to the Manager.

PAST PERFORMANCE

Information on performance presupposes that the Portfolio's distributions during the periods presented have been totally reinvested in additional units of the same series. The returns do not include deductions for sales fees, transfer, redemption or other optional fees (because there are none) or income taxes payable, and would be lower if they included such items. The Portfolio's past performance is not necessarily indicative of future performance.

Annual Performance

The following bar graph indicates the Portfolio's annual returns for each year. It shows the year-to-year variation in the Portfolio's return. The graph presents, in percentage form, what would have been the upward or downward variation, on the last day of the period, of an investment made on the first day of that year.
